Definition of designated emergency evacuation shelters and designated evacuation shelters

Designated emergency evacuation shelters
 For different types of disasters, such as floods and tsunamis, facilities or places that meet certain safety standards are designated as evacuation shelters to avoid danger when a disaster occurs or is likely to occur.

Designated evacuation shelter
 Designated for shelter evacuees for the necessary time until the disaster risk is lifted, or to shelter residents who cannot return home due to a disaster.

Even rivers and areas without expected flood areas may experience flooding. Please do not let your guard down due to map information and always confirm the situation.
